to see daily, but this had only been done on the arrangements required elsewhere. For a long time Mr. LLOYD had been in the island, and he thought it was very probable that the matter had not come to a conclusion. He thought it was surrounded with difficulties to know the place some time since, but a very big question was involved. The Government had no blood out to see to be submitted to them, and no one was waiting on his part to bring the institution into a state as possible.

Mr. MACINTOSH thought a reconstruction of the institution necessary, and was of opinion that it was impossible to keep the institution in the present state. Mr. PHELPS thought the control of the institution with the Corporation, as it was a matter concerning the policy of Sydney only. He hoped he should not say any future estimate.

Mr. HARTLEY said the chambers were the Government. He said the chambers were the

The total amount received into the Treasury of the South Wales during the year 1872 was £540,000; and the total amount paid out of the Treasury £522,000; leaving a balance in hand at the end of the year of £1,002,618.

This balance the Bank of New South Wales held £1,002,118, and the Treasury chest £508,500.

The total of the year's income from Revenue was £2,819,379; an increase on that of the preceding year of £573,479, or upwards of 26 per cent.

A brief summary of each side of the account, compared with that of the year preceding, is as follows:

REVENUE AND OTHER RECEIPTS.

On 31st December	1,002,618	£528,170
Total	£4,776,540	£4,709,010

The above is a bird's-eye view of both sides of the account, the total amount of money received by the Treasury and the total amount paid out, during each of the last two years. It is a summary of the account for the year 1872, as compared with that of the year 1871. The account for the year 1872 is as follows:—The proper income of the year was £2,819,379, and the expenditure upon the general public service was £1,745,039. We have thus a surplus of £1,074,340 within the year over the year's expenditure of £1,067,980. To this must be added the proceeds of Treasury Bills, £248,105, the amount of advances repaid into the Treasury, £44,728; making the total available revenue account of £1,460,171. Out of this total was paid for interest on the debt £850,000, an instalment of debt paid off £300,000, and a replacement of overdraft £684; leaving a balance in favour of Consolidated Revenue account of £387. Adding to this balance the balance in favour of the Loans and Trust Funds, £290,281, there results the balance above as remaining in the public account at the end of the year 1872, of £1,002,618.

The income, or Revenue Proper, received in the quarter of the last two years, was as follows:—

	1871.	1872.	Increase.
March	£476,444	£510,116	£33,672 future of Gulchong cannot be over-estimated, as it will open up a large area of new ground, the wealth of which can only be guessed at. The south ground is 200 feet deep with a large area at the bottom in quantity. In Houma's paddock all the land is now down 50 feet. The Extended Enterprise Company are measuring 9 x 4 feet. This company is an important undertaking, as it will prove the value of the various lands in this district, which are considered to have become worthless in the company's ground. What is known as "Bisgarah" still hangs fire, owing to the dispute as to whether the land is the property of the leaseholders. The Tallywacker country is a mine's right and living for a few hundreds, who seem well satisfied with their position. There is nothing new in the Red Hill area, but the Leasead Claims Company is now down 145 feet, being out and running. The Key of Gulchong has finished its work, and the company is progressing with its new shaft, and progress may be reported of every claim. The Louisiana rock looks well, especially in the south, where it is in demand. The claims on the Old Gulchong line of the have gone to Adeline to be reduced, from the Discoverer's in the Amalgamated claim, north of the Dis-

I am told splendid stone is coming out from their claim and I may also state that with one exception all the shares that have changed hands in it have been purchased by

COPPER.

The Adeloce correspondent writes to the Grandeville Times of the 26th ultimo, that the copper lodes discovered by Myers, Clayton and Butler, on the Snowball range, in the townships of Snowball and Grandeville, are being worked by the latter party, and that the parties interested in the claim have wisely resolved on proving its value before spending too large a sum of money in attempting to work it on their own account, or to form it into a company. They have two men employed sinking shafts into the lodes, and have also secured a large quantity of ore to graze; the blue and green carbonates are seen in great quantities and the red and black oxide in great blocks. As soon as teams can be procured some tons of ore will be taken to the mill.

RUSSIA AND KHIVA.

(From the Tiflis Kankas.)

"A VERY serious reconnaissance is expected to be made in September. By that time a force will be collected there, consisting of fourteen companies of infantry and 200 Kasakat with twenty pieces of field artillery. We may look forward to a proper definition of our relations with Khiva as well as towards the Turkomen, who are not yet subjected to our control. The Khiva-Kasakat have long abused our confidence. At the critical moment they have always escaped punishment through a recourse to their treacherous and barbarous policy. They at length arrived at the conclusion that the Russians had forsaken the idea of visiting the Khnum, and on the strength of this they redoubled their energies in arming the neighbouring tribes against us. They employed all means to fill their markets with Russian and Persian slaves, their barbarous treatment of the latter passing all bounds.

"Last year, when our detachment reconnoitering the Turcoman steppes in the direction of Khnum reached the frontier of that State, the Khan became alive to the danger which threatened him, and he sought to exempt his country from the ravages of so very iniquitous a policy. He sent his envoys repeat to our Government the old worn-up phrases, and the promises which had never been fulfilled. While abusing our confidence and mercy, the Khans of Khiva injured our interests. In this last instance, however, the Khivan envoys sustained a fiasco; they were turned back by the advice that they should in future abstain from all kind of interference with our amity, and that, to begin with, they should deliver up the captives, whose lot is really hard.

the tillage of the ground; this labour is performed by Russian and Persian captives. Our artillerymen alone enjoy anything like a tolerable existence; these men are employed in training the Khivans to the use of guns; the cutest among these creeping into favour and into lucrative places, and securing themselves certain posts. The Kurds are also the best of all the agitators of the steppe, and the refuge of all fugitive Russian criminals. Khiva may very probably be called a close of all the elements hostile to Russia in Central Asia. She has always ignored the treaties that have been concluded with her, and it is only by stripping her of

It is independence that a practical control over the sea and the land is a policy of the Government.

"In creating the Krasnovodsk Fort we had in view not alone the exercise of our influence on the southern coast of the Caspian, but also the establishment of a port at this extremity of the nearest and most convenient road between it and Khiva, and at a point on the coast answering the requirements of a commercial harbour. The principal works are now finished. Those that are in course of completion, others that are projected, are of great importance, and, as being necessary for economic expeditions, lead to the conclusion that the Government has serious intentions, and that Krasnovodsk will in the future play an important part. "The establishment of our rule in Khiva will bring about a normal development of our trade in Central Asia, and it will also bring us into closer relation with the Turcomans. The exploration of the steppes from Krasnovodsk to Khiva has shown us that it does not offer the qualities which were formerly supposed to obstruct it. Our detachment performed the reconnaissance last year in that direction marched most of the way over a firm argillaceous soil which merges into salines. This ground was not heavy for marching; in many places the steppe was covered with a brushwood and around the so as Khiva becomes assured that she can gain no advantage by acting in a hostile manner towards our plans. Krasnovodsk will assume an important attitude on the south-east coast of the Caspian. The caravans, which now travel from Khiva over the Ust-urt and through the Karakum region to Orenburg, or, if the route is too long, to Fergana, will, of course, will, without doubt, change their course, because from Khiva to Orenburg it is 879 miles, whereas to Krasnovodsk it is only about 423. This diminution of the distance by one-half will reflect very favourably on our trade.

with Central Asia, and the line of railway from Tiflis will, independently of water communication, enable us to fill the Central Asian markets with our manufactures, and to forward the produce of Asia into the centre of Russia."
